

Co-Creation

Submit your heartfelt project and take the first steps with us.

Become a member of the association, add your voice and gain access to exchange, partners and opportunities to present your work. Become a provider in the Guild Shop and show what you can do. Take responsibility as an ambassador, as a guardian or as a keeper and help build structures that last.

You decide the scope and pace of your involvement.

We ensure reliability and visibility. The use of funds and results are reported transparently.

Cooperations are accompanied responsibly, and achievements are recognised. This is how trust grows on all sides, how commitment becomes resonance, and how good work creates a sustainable future.

Association Corner

The Association Corner makes knowledge directly usable and inspiring.

A media library with lectures and podcasts, curated books, learning games and calendars on agriculture, astronomy and health is complemented by up-to-date weather and air quality data.

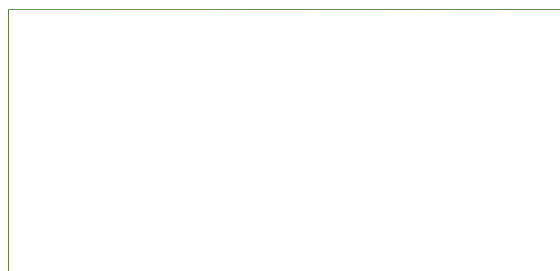

Practical guides, checklists and templates make it easier to take the first steps. Everything is clearly structured, regularly updated and suitable for families, schools, businesses and initiatives.

The Swiss International Association Projekt Eden

Values. Development. Symbiosis.

We all seek a life that feels right on the inside and proves itself on the outside.

Our association brings both together. People come together around shared values, act collectively, and create an environment where responsibility, creativity, and care are a natural part of daily life.

This gives rise to places and initiatives that strengthen body, mind, and community, and add depth to everyday life.

Who We Are

The Swiss International Association Projekt Eden is based in Oftringen.

From here, we connect committed individuals, businesses, and organizations throughout the DACH region and build bridges to other countries. At the heart of our work are heartfelt projects for nature, animals, people, and the sea, as well as social initiatives. We promote collaboration in areas such as nature and animal protection, agriculture and permaculture, health and prevention, education and culture, crafts and regional economy, construction and housing, energy and ecological technologies, and tourism and responsible travel. What unites us are clear values and the shared will to make them visible.

What We Do

We accompany ideas from the first sketch to their realisation.

At the beginning, we define goals, clarify benefits and determine the main milestones.

We then connect projects with qualified partners, create spaces for learning and experience and support them in obtaining funding and subsidies at all levels, including cantonal, federal, EU, foundation and international programmes.

In this way, every project receives the form it needs and the stability it deserves.

How We Work

The Guild is our living network.

People take responsibility, share knowledge, recommend good work and make quality visible.

Ambassadors connect people and open doors. Guardians coordinate regional activities and accompany providers and projects. Keepers take on national responsibility and ensure alignment and quality.

Participation and rewards are structured transparently, assignments are traceable and accounting is clear. This creates trust that makes decisions easier and cooperation reliable.

Social Togetherness

Community begins when people create space for one another.

In our association, there are places where anyone can stop by, sit down and feel how good it is not to be alone.

After work, on weekends or whenever there is time, encounters take place here that begin easily and often remain.

No one has to prove anything and everyone can take part.

An open evening quickly becomes a habit and strangers become acquaintances or even friends.

In this way, a social network grows that brings warmth, reveals abilities and gives new meaning to everyday life.

Come by, get involved or simply enjoy the company.

Where Values
Take Effect and the Future Begins

The Guild Shop

For good work to reach people, there must be a trustworthy place for exchange.

In the Guild Shop, providers present their products and services that align with the values of the association. Every purchase supports regional cycles and makes association projects possible.

The range extends from crafts and manufacturing, construction and buildings, living and decoration, household and kitchen, clothing and textiles, health and wellbeing, care and natural cosmetics, culinary arts and hospitality, fresh produce and agriculture, animals and nature, education, culture and media, services, energy and technologies, to offers for children and families, travel and experiences, and a space for innovation and pilot projects. This diversity is intentional because life itself is diverse.

Visible Support. Two and a half percent of every order or booking in the Guild Shop goes to the association and helps fund projects for nature, animals, people and the sea, as well as social initiatives.

Memberships and Support

Membership means participation. You gain access to a reliable network, find cooperation partners, and learn through formats that connect practice and knowledge. You also receive guidance in financing, funding opportunities and visibility. The association is sustained by donations and by people who share responsibility. Patrons, supporters and sponsors make it possible for education, environmental and social initiatives to grow. Sponsorships and purpose-specific contributions are also possible. Every contribution is a clear statement for quality, care and the future.
